

Answers: Which PALACE CIRCLE Man Would You Marry?

Scoring: Give yourself one point for each time you answered (a), two points for each time you answered (b), three points for each time you answered (c), and four points for each time you answered (d).

10-15 points – You will marry Ivor Conisborough, a loyal friend, wealthy supporter, and good father.

Ivor, Viscount Conisborough, is a cosmopolitan, sophisticated English aristocrat. A financial advisor to the late King Edward VII, he becomes an advisor to King George V. His ancestral home, Shibden Hall, is in Norfolk, within sight of the sea. His London home is a Georgian mansion in Cadogan Square, Knightsbridge. A widower when he marries Delia (twenty years his junior) he brings her to London, providing a wealthy, stable, life, though devoid of passion or true love. He is a very hard worker and passes his sense of responsibility on to his two daughters, Davina and Petra.

15-25 points – You will marry Fergus Sinclair, a passionate activist, dedicated to helping others, loving his wife, and baby boy.

Fergus Sinclair is a Scot. An intelligent doctor with a strong social conscience, he and his wife are volunteers at Toynbee Hall, an East End of London settlement house that works on the idea that those giving aid to the poor, should also live among the poor. Sinclair dedicates his life to social justice, helping those less fortunate than himself. He has one baby boy.

25-35 points – You will marry Jerome Bazeljette, a romantic, handsome, caring, yet often philandering lover, and very dedicated father.

Jerome Bazeljette is Ivor's very attractive friend and Delia's life-long love. From the moment she met him, she was immediately attracted, and her love for him only grows with time and distance. A baronet, Ivor is far younger than Ivor, and though a loyal friend, where women are concerned, he has the deserved reputation of being a philanderer. He is a loving father to his son Jack, and a wonderful "father-figure" to Davina and Petra.

35-45 points - You will marry Jack Bazeljette, a good natured and good-looking guy, dedicated friend, boyfriend, and husband.

Jack is Jerome and Lady Bazeljette's only child. Good-looking, gregarious and outgoing, he falls in love with Petra, his good family friend. Jack's love for Petra is one that never wavers, even when tested by time and circumstance.
