Chapter One

Torn, Ripped, Ruined

My name is Nate the Great.

I am a detective.

My dog, Sludge, is a detective too.

“Ouch!”

Right now I am a mumbling, bumbling, tripping detective.

I have just tripped over
a big pile of books that Rosamond left in my house.

Sludge is sniffing them.
He has been sniffing them
since Rosamond knocked on my door
this morning.
She was carrying a bunch of books.
Three more were piled on her head.
Rosamond looked very strange.
Rosamond looks strange all the time.
“I have great news,” she said.
“I have started a book club.
I am calling it Rosamond’s Ready Readers.
But there is trouble in the club.
One of the members is trying to wreck my cookbook. Look!”
Rosamond took a book off her head.
The other two books fell off.
“Why are you carrying books on top of your head?” I asked.
“Because I’m president of a club now.

These books help me hold my head high and look like a president.”

I, Nate the Great, knew that I was looking at a very strange president.

“This is my new cookbook,” she said.

“Yesterday I left it open on my kitchen table after I made treats for the club meeting.

When the meeting was over, I went to get the treats for the members.

The page that was open was torn, ripped, ruined!”

Sludge and I looked at the page.

I, Nate the Great, say that it was torn, ripped, ruined.
